WAGNER'S REVIEW

Morning Grain Letter.

Chicago, May 27.—Newspapers say wheat sentiment is still bearish. The market slipped off Tuesday on south-western news and Armour steady selling. Foreign news was ignored. Newspaper reports in all parts of country regard the winter wheat crop as practically made with enormous results. These reports have curtailed public interest in wheat. Temperatures were 90 to 94 in middle west yesterday, and the grain sections of the southwest were dry with exception of some rains in Missouri and Nebraska.

There is no diminution in oats complaints. Crop is badly troubled with drought over half of its acreage. Bulges are due until proper rains arrive. Corn shows signs of hesitation. Chicago stocks are next to nothing, and while the movement has increased fully 25 per cent of the receipts are going to Omaha. Local corn bulls do not believe the new Argentine corn offerings will weaken corn liberally. They regard the United States as on a domestic corn basis for many weeks.

Our reports of this morning contain excellent wheat and oats reports from Minnesota and North Dakota. Almost every report from Indiana, however, mentions too dry and a large number says oats going back. We have reports of oats 40 per cent from central Indiana and 75 per cent from north central Indiana. Illinois also is a big complainant on dry and the oats. Teutopolis, Illinois, says oats 65 per cent in two counties and no rain for 24 days. Any number of cities in central west say no rain for 14 days. Our Kansas reports are still good. Heavy Chicago receipts of wheat suggest May wheat is at top. A little rally in July and September wheat is due. May corn should display strength.

STRIKERS' WIVES TELL THE PRESIDENT OF GREAT WRONGS DONE IN COLORADO

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Since his interview last week with Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, Mrs. Mary Petrucci, who had three small children burned to death during the Colorado strike; Mrs. Lee Champion, Mrs. Pearl Jolly, described as "The Heroine of Ludlow," and Mrs. W. H. Thomas, President Wilson has discussed the Colorado situation with his cabinet and with several senators and representatives from Colorado. He was evidently deeply impressed with the story told him by Lindsey and by the wives of the miners who visited him.

"There is no republican form of government in Colorado," Judge Lindsey told the president. "The governor of the state is incompetent and has confessed the fact in asking the president of the United States to send troops into the mining district to preserve order. There being no republican form of government in the state we hold that the president of the United States can close every mine and force arbitration."

President Wilson asked Judge Lindsey and the various members of his party many questions and tried to get all the information possible on the situation, but he did not make any promises, simply taking the proposition submitted by Judge Lindsey under consideration.

At a mass meeting at the National Rites' armory, under the auspices of the Washington Woman's Suffrage Council, Mrs. Champion said: "When a part of the miners sought refuge in the hills to the north of the Ludlow camp, the militiamen were unrelenting in their attacks on the women. The women sought refuge in the pits, but, regardless of their sex, they were the target of a continual firing, which lasted through the day.

"Mrs. Jolly dodged the firing for a while and finally put on the badge of the Red Cross. This the militiamen used as a target. During the day one of her heels was shot off. She only escaped with her life that night after she had sought the shelter of a farm house.

"Mrs. Thomas was one of those who sought the protection of the well, where, with 50 children, she was fired on by the militiamen. Around her were dead and dying. She stayed through until night came and then made her escape up the arroyo.

"Mrs. Petrucci saw her three children killed. She was in tent No. 1, the nearest to the firing line, when the machine guns were trained on the camp. She ran to the nearest tent and asked for protection. A militiaman standing near cried out: 'Go away. She asked him where she could go, but he did not answer. This was the tent which was later burned, and 13 persons, including her children, were killed and afterward dug from beneath it."

The Colorado strike has cost the federal government $49,390 up to the present time. Of this sum $33,390 was spent in transporting troops to the mining sections and sustaining them in camp. The other $16,000 was spent by the house committee which investigated the strike.

declamatory contest and won fourth place.

William and Vashti college baseball team had a very successful trip last week, and won three victories, which makes seven straight wins thus far this season. Thursday afternoon they met the Normal university team at Normal, and won the game with a score of 17 to 13. Friday they defeated the Eureka college team in a very close game by a score of 5 to 4 at Eureka. The best game of the trip was played Saturday in Peoria with Bradley, with a score of 8 to 2. Winning three games on a trip is a new record for William and Vashti, although there have been several very good baseball teams at the local institution. Not another team in the conference can boast of such a record.
